20,000 PLURALITY FOR TENER IS LATEST ESTIMATE TODAY.

Berry is Gaining Strength in the Country Districts But Only Landslide Could Elect Him.

FIVE COUNTIES ARE MISSING

With These Out of It, Tener Has 34,874 Over Berry—Three Congressional Districts Are in Doubt—Legislature Strongly Republican.

JOHN K. TENER

United Press Telegram.
PITTSBURG, Nov. 9.—Latest returns continue to show Berry coming strong. Three counties in the mountain districts are still entirely unheard from at 2 p.m. They are Elk, Northampton and Pike. All are considered strong for Berry. Present figures give Tener about 20,000 plurality. These three counties and scattered districts may cause a reversal of form.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 9.—Indications this forenoon were that Tener would be elected by about 25,000. The latest returns show Berry strengthening in the country districts. The returns are being made so slowly in some places that still enough districts remain to change the result in event of a Berry landslide in those places.

Grim is away behind, barely beating Shayler and Larkin. The Republicans are already certain of losing two Congressmen. Democrats were successful in the Fifth, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Twenty-second and Twenty-sixth districts.

The Eighth, Eleventh and Twenty-fourth are still uncertain. Republicans have carried all the others, including Congressman John Dallzell, who was reelected by about 3,000 plurality.

The Legislature will be strongly Republican despite small gains by the Democrats and Independents. Pittsburgh's $10,000,000 municipal bond issue was endorsed by a big majority.

John K. Tener defeated Philadelphia to win the city giving him a plurality of 15,251. Allegheny county gave Tener an estimated plurality of 15,000.

Five counties only are now missing from the totals. They are Elk, Northampton, Pike, Snyder and Washington. All in Berry territory. Without including these counties, Tener has a plurality of 31,871.

The Socialists elected their first member to the Legislature in Philadelphia.

While the figures are not yet available, indications point to the election of Reynolds, Republican, for Lieutenant Governor, and Houck, Republican, for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 9.—Shortly before noon to lay a careful count of 255 districts out of 665 in the county showed Tener 29,584; Berry, 21,981. Tener's plurality is only 7,503. Nearly all the big boroughs that gave large Berry pluralities are included in the count.

State Senator James L. Adams, who remained until 3 A.M. today at Republican county headquarters, where returns were received, said this morning that an unofficial estimate gives Tener a plurality of 7,510 votes. In 127 out of the 665 districts in the state.

CONNELLSVILLE CITIZENS VOTE SOLIDLY IN FAVOR OF THIRD CLASS CITY CHARTER; POLITICAL LEADERS KEEP HANDS OFF.

Fifth Ward Lead in Favor of the New Charter, While the First, Third, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh All Gave Splendid Support—The Second Was Only Ward to Vote Against Becoming a City.

Connellsville will go forward; not backward. This was decided by the vote on the third class city charter here yesterday. The borough went overwhelmingly in favor of becoming a city, the vote being about 3 to 1 for the movement. Of the seven wards only one cast its vote against the proposition. That was the Second, where the charter lost by the narrow margin of 13 votes. Other wards voted in big margins in favor of becoming a city. The Fifth Ward led in the majority, having 151 votes to the good. The Third Ward went for the city with 111 votes to spare. In the Sixth Ward the proposition had 113 votes to the good; 103 in the Fourth; 95 in the First and 68 in the Seventh. The First returned a majority of 95 in favor of the city. Pre-election stories were circulated that the hotel men might fight the proposition and that H. M. Kephart, the Republican leader here, would oppose the new charter. The vote shows that this "advanced legislation," and no foundation in fact. One of the leading workers at the polls in favor of a third class city charter was A. A. Strain of the Smith House. He was assisted by C. W. Patterson, proprietor of the Wyman Hotel, and to their earnest efforts credit is due for the unanimous vote given the proposition. Furthermore, Mr. Kephart has kept his "hands off" and persons who were in favor of the new charter.

Mr. Kephart stated before the election that this was not a matter for the leaders to determine, but should be left to the citizens to decide for themselves. That he kept faith is shown in the fact that several of his lieutenants about the First ward polls were independently and vigorously working for the movement. To those who are close to Kephart his statement of keeping his "hands off" was never questioned and the vote should be a revelation to those who predicted that the Republican leader would be against the third class city proposition. There was no organized work against the city proposition, while the movement for it had no active political workers except in the First Ward. In the Fifth, Seventh and several other wards voters were requested to record their sentiment in regard to the matter, and this enabled a representative vote to be polled.

COL. CRAGO IS AN EASY WINNER.

Will Carry 23rd District 4,000 to 5,000 for Congress.

LOST. ONLY OVER IN GREENE THREE STATES ARE IN DOUBT

And in That Rock-Ribbed Democratic Stronghold Wise Has But 442 to the Good—38 Districts in Contest Give Crago 1,189—Fayette Strong.

It was stated in Uniontown at 1 o'clock this afternoon by County Chairman Ash P. Williams that Col. Thomas S. Crago will have a plurality of 3,500 in Fayette county. It is also possible that he may lead the Republican ticket in this county. Mr. Crago ran strong in all sections of the county.

His election to Congress to succeed Allen F. Cooper, retired, is assured as Somerset rolled on a big vote in his favor and Greene county did not go as strongly for Wise as the vociferous Democratic candidate predicted.

Greene county gave Jesus Hoot, Wise only a plurality of 162 over Col. Thomas S. Crago, according to the completed vote which gives Wm. Crago, 1,932. Wise expected to carry that county by an overwhelming vote, but his estimates there were no near the mark than in Fayette and Somerset.

Republican Governors have been elected in California, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

The result is still undecided in Colorado, Idaho and North Dakota.

The 62nd Congress will contain 171 Republicans, 217 Democrats and 35 Electors, a Republican loss of 11.

Roosevelt Was the Issue in New York

United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—That the Roosevelt issue was the vital one in this State was proved by the vote for Governor in his home county. Two years ago Governor Hughes carried Nassau county by 3,502. Yesterday the Democrats had a plurality of 300.

The conditions that prevailed on Long Island were duplicated in the 21st Congressional district where Hamilton Fish, an original insurgent, who was the first progressive to send greetings to Roosevelt when he emerged from the jungle, was bowled over by Richard E. Connell.

Mr. Roosevelt not only carried Connellville by a plurality of 181 over Berry, but he had a majority of the total vote cast, his margin over all the other candidates being 121.

State Senator Crow Runs Close Behind Hlm and Representative Carroll in Third—Tener Loses Only One Ward in the Borough.

Connellsville rolled up an overwhelming Republican vote yesterday. Every candidate on the ticket went through with votes to spare and even the "Bloody Third" took Democrat and contributed to the avalanche of votes which carried Tener, Crago, Carroll and the other candidates out of the only city in Fayette county with handsome pluralities.

There is only one ward in which a Republican failed to lead the candidates on other tickets. This was the Fifth, where William H. Berry, apostle of "reform," led John K. Tener by a scant 11 votes.

Mr. Tener not only carried Connellville by a plurality of 181 over Berry, but he had a majority of the total vote cast, his margin over all the other candidates being 121.

State Chairman Says Fayette Leader Made the Nearest Guess>Returns Are Coming in Rapidly—Carroll Will Likely Lead.

THE COMPLETIVE COUNT.
The following table gives the county returns in general thus far received, all of the districts being listed. Fayette county gives the following Governor.

Tener 7,100
Berry 4,132
Tener over Berry 2,968
Dearymon 2,400
Congress 2,400
Cravo 2,400
Wise 3,176
Dearymon over Wise 3,176
Carroll 3,762
State Senator 3,762
Crow 3,615
Dearymon 4,705
Cravo over Dearymon 3,615

Fayette county went solidly Republican. The returns that have been received up to 1 o'clock this afternoon indicate a close race between Col. Crago and State Senator W. E. Crow as to which will lead the ticket. County Chairman Ash P. Williams stopped tabulating long enough this morning at Uniontown to estimate the plurality of both men in the neighborhood of 2,000. Williams says his prediction of 2,000 in the county for Tener stands good, according to the information at hand.

The Republican candidates for the Legislature have been elected by a good majority. It is probable that John S. Carroll will lead the candidates for this office in the county. Harry J. Hornsell is running splendidly and will give Carroll a close race for first honors. D. D. Johnson is also showing up strong. The signs at this time are that all three are elected by pluralities ranging from 1,500 to 4,000.

Indications point to Reuben Howard polling the highest vote of the Democratic candidates for the Legislature on joint ballot tabulation. Sufficient returns have been received by 11 o'clock this morning to indicate that the Democrats will control the Legislature on joint ballot from 10 to 15.

Senator Beveridge himself declared that he still hoped and believed the Legislature will be Republican. John W. Keay, Dallzell, describes the late assertion of Chairman Lee as a "last wiggle."

DEMOCRATS GET CONGRESSMAN IN RHODE ISLAND

United Press Telegram.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 9.—With Rhode Island's usual Republican majorities cut by thousands and one Democrat elected to Congress, Senator Aldrich's State today showed that the high cost of living and tariff arguments, even in Aldrich's home fell on fertile ground.

Lewis A. Waterman, Democratic candidate for Governor, it is shown from complete returns, won Governor Brothier's plurality of 12,000 last year to 996 this year.

In the First Congressional district O'Shaughnessy, Democrat, defeated Sheldon by 1,875. The Legislature is Republican and will probably elect Senator Aldrich.

HOP ANDERSON WILL WIN OUT FOR THE SENATE

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—Washington county will give William H. Blair 726 plurality. Bentley will pull through by about 200. A hard fight was made against him. The other Republican candidates for the Assembly had the Keystone endorsement.

A. H. Anderson, the Republican candidate for State Senate, will have a close shave. He is gaining in Washington and has lost Greene county by about 450. It is estimated that Anderson will carry Washington by about 700.

Squirrels Plentiful.

Grey squirrels seem to be more plentiful this season than in many years past.

WESTMORELAND IS STRONG FOR BERRY AND KEYSTONE

All Legislative Candidates Endorsed by Independents are Elected—Gregg Will Win.

Special to The Courier.

GREENSBURG, Nov. 9.—William H. Blair will carry Westmoreland over J. David McJunkin, Republican, and it is predicted Gregg may carry the district by from 600 to 700.

Greensburg, Scottdale, Latrobe and most of the larger towns in the county rolled up votes for Berry and the Keystone ticket.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

The Housewife of Today Must Watch Expenses Very Closely.

In those modern times, when the high cost of living makes strict economy a necessity even for well-to-do people, good housekeeping involves something more than keeping the house tidy and saving palatable meals. To do both and meet the housekeeper of today must watch expenses very closely. Many ladies in Connellsville have solved the problem of keeping an accurate record of household expenditures by having a check book, and therefore, have a record of and a receipt for every item of expense. The First National cordially invites the accounts of women and has a special department for girls exclusively.

MEN HE BUDED WON OUT

Even Congressman in Own State for Whom He Worked Went Down to Defeat—Harmon and Baldwin Successful.

United Press Telegram
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt support seems today to have spelled defeat for its recipients the country over and Roosevelt’s opposition to have brought them success. The only one of Roosevelt’s friends for whom he made an open fight whose fate is at all in doubt is Senator Beveridge of Indiana and the indications are that he has gone down with the rest. Of course Roosevelt’s most notable defeat was in New York State where Johnson, his own political creation and running on a platform of Roosevelt’s making, was beaten by more than 60,000.

Of the men whom Roosevelt opposed, Judge Baldwin of Connecticut was most conspicuous. The clash between those two reached its personal stage and may yet result in a slender victory for the Governor-elect against Rootie.

Governor Harmon of Ohio was another notable example, and he, too, was victorious by a decisive pluralty. Roosevelt made a special trip to town to aid the Congressional candidate of Charles Gilk but the latter shone, along with other Iowa and Kansas candidates for whom the Col. spoke, in the general reverse.

The defeat that came closest home to Roosevelt was that of Congressman William Clegg who represents the Colonel’s district and for whom the Colonel made a final plea for support on the night before election.

Other close friends of Roosevelt who counted on his support to return them to Congress were Hamilton Fish and Herbert Parsons. Both were defeated.

WHY THEY FAIL

Most Pile Remedies Miss the Cause of Piles.

Diarrhoeal treatment with cathartics or purgatives usually fails to cure piles and cutting them off won’t remove the cause. Such methods only moderate the outside effects of the disease and fails to remedy the inside cause. The up to date doctors now use internal medicines to free the elevation in the lower bowel, and so remove the disease.

Dr. Leonhardt’s Hem-Rold, the best and only guaranteed internal pile cure in the form of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by A. A. Clucko, Connellsville, Pa. $1 for large box. Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station 1, Buffalo, N. Y.

Cures That Never Drank.

The “wild cow” of Atabira in reality an antelope, the Beaufort ox is said never to drink which is probably correct, for unless these animals can descend the wells they can find no drinking water for ten months in the year. There is no surface water and the falls but precariously during the winter. Only once during my journey did I find a pool of rainwater, caught in a hollow rock, and even this I should have passed by without knowing of its existence had not my camel sniffed it from a distance and obstinately refused to be turned from going in that direction. These antelopes, however, are provided by nature with a curious food supply, especially designed as a thirst quencher. This is a parasite which grows on the roots of the desert bushes and forms a long spadix full of water and juice. The antelope dig deep holes in the sand in order to get at these.—Wide World Magazine.

A DEED OF DARING.

Twenty-seven Lives Saved by One Man in a Shipwreck.

A historic case of daring and endurance rarely equaled in life saving annals was that of the rescue of twenty-seven souls by one man in 1807. The fishing schooner Sea Clipper was driven by the tempest against a reef near the spotted Islands on that coast and speedily went to pieces. Captain William Jackman in charge of a sailing crew at these islands, had wandered in a direction he had never been before as if by inspiration and suddenly saw the whole tragedy enacted before his eyes. Hurrying his one companion back to the fishing station to summon help, he plunged into the howling surf himself and eleven times swam to the ship. Each time he took back a human being to safety, battling splendidly against wind and tide.

Then help arrived, but no means was available of communicating with the vessel, so Jackman fastened a rope around his waist and made fifteen more trips, returning with a castaway on each occasion. It was then discovered that a woman had been overlooked and lost on board, and the bullet was expressed that she was dead, but he declared that he would not leave her there, living or dead. Accordingly he plunged into the surf again and soon bore the hapless creature to the shore, where, divesting himself of his flannels, he whipped her round about, as she was almost at death’s door. She expired a few hours later, but lived long enough to thank her preserver for his noble efforts in her behalf.—Wide World Magazine.

Then help arrived, but no means was available of communicating with the vessel, so Jackman fastened a rope around his waist and made fifteen more trips, returning with a castaway on each occasion. It was then discovered that a woman had been overlooked and lost on board, and the bullet was expressed that she was dead, but he declared that he would not leave her there, living or dead. Accordingly he plunged into the surf again and soon bore the hapless creature to the shore, where, divesting himself of his flannels, he whipped her round about, as she was almost at death’s door. She expired a few hours later, but lived long enough to thank her preserver for his noble efforts in her behalf.—Wide World Magazine.

THE RESULT WAS NOT A SURPRISE

Policies and Leaders of the Republican Party Withstood Vicious Attacks.

FIGHT ON TENER WAS DISGRACE

Republicans of Pennsylvania Have Important Work Ahead—Proud Place in Affairs of Nation Held by Senator Penrose.

The election of John K. Tener to succeed Eddin S. Stuart as Governor of Pennsylvania was accepted as a fact from the day that Mr. Tener was chosen as the candidate by the Republicans of the State. Mr. Tener's nomination was made in the open. He appealed to the Republican workers for their support in his contest for the nomination and he was the unanimous choice of the nominating convention. He thus became the candidate of the whole Republican party and the opposition to his election came from the organized band of discontents who are never satisfied unless they are accepted as the corpse at the funeral or the bride at the wedding. No candidate in recent years suffered such malicious assaults as were made upon Mr. Tener. He was charged with about every crime on the calendar save murder yet he was the candidate of the Republican voters of the State and as such he was invincible. If the practice of attacking candidates for public places is to be continued the work of securing able, honest and self-sacrificing men to submit themselves to the assaults of the vindictive slanders is certain to become a serious question in this State. Only those whose ambition vaults higher than their sole respect will endure the grueling bitterness of a campaign to secure public places which at best is generally accepted as a sacrifice and the sycophant, the time-server and the professional place-hunter, whose hide is as thick, usually, as that of an elephant will, without protest, force to the front and fill the public offices because decency will not venture into politics and pay the penalty now demanded of it.

The campaign just ended was a humiliation and a disgrace. It was intended by deep seated bitterness, falsehood and slander. That was the price the discontents were willing to pay for advantage and it is gratifying to realize that this offensive offering was not attractive to the bulk of the voters of the State. They refused to sell out for considerations of that character.

Mr. Tener is a staunch Republican. The mendacious attacks upon him were accepted for just what they were worth. He refused to be forced into a mud-slinging contest. He was sustained by the confidence that the principles and policies of the Republican party were unassailable and he submitted to the assaults upon his personal integrity believing firmly that those who knew him best would resent the outrage. It is not convincing that so many voters are so easily swayed by hatred, prejudice and false pretense, and real courage is required to remain silent in the face of such methods as were employed by the political discontents during this campaign, but Mr. Tener manifested that brand of courage and the affairs of the State will not suffer in the hands of any courageous Governor.

Many good Republicans and many good Democrats allowed their intelligence to be played upon by the political discontents but they are certain to be heartily ashamed of themselves when they find that Mr. Tener's highest ambition is to keep the engine of the State government upon the tracks laid by the regular Republican organization and followed intelligently by Governor Stuarts. The doluded voters in looking backward must realize that the policies and principles of the Republican party were at no time at issue. The leaders of the Republican party in State and Nation were applauded at every possible turn because an attack on the party or its leaders would have been a down right insult to the voters. Now, however, the election is over and the Republican party's work has really begun. A successor to United States Senator George T. Oliver is to be chosen by the Legislature which assembles at Harrisburg immediately after the new year. It is highly probable that Mr. Oliver will be the only Republican candidate for that honor. He has made a brilliant record in the Senate and has already announced as a candidate to succeed himself. But whoever the candidate may be the Republicans of Pennsylvania will not be in default. They will send to the United States Senate a colleague to Senator Doles Peacock who shall be able to assist him in maintaining the recognized leadership in that body to which he has advanced through his admirable qualities of head and heart. When the next session of the United States Senate is held Senator Penrose will head the most important committee in that great body. He will, in all probability, be closer to President Taft than any other member of the Senate and from his exalted place in the councils of his party and through his intimate friendship with the chief executive he will be able to accomplish much for his party and his State.

THE ELECTION RESULTS AND THEIR CONSOLATIONS.

While the elections yesterday were generally disappointing to Republicans, it is perhaps just as well that certain now and strange political doxmas were put on trial and pursued to judgment now rather than two years hence, and that their strenuous author has had his turn on the stage and made exit without much chance of a recall.

The overwhelming Democratic victories in New York and Massachusetts are known to be intended as a rebuke to Theodore Roosevelt's pretensions as a political leader, and it will perhaps be found that the general Republican stamp is due to his peculiar preachers on New Nationalism and other Progressive policies never before written in the Republican creed.

It will be remembered that Bryan lays claim to some of them and the return indicates that the Democratic party profited most by them in this election.

The folly of following after the now and untried doctrines of professional reformers who seek their own aggrandizement rather than the nation's welfare has been demonstrated anew, and those Republicans of the country who have suffered from a severe attack of hysteria will probably have been fully restored to safety and sanity before another Congress is chosen.

In the meantime, however, it is good to know that Pennsylvania held fast to the faith, and that Fayette county withstood the shock of insurgent assault without wavering. And the political wrecks around her, she emerges with her usual Republican majority and without the loss of a single candidate. The voters of the Connellsville coke region have a vivid recollection of this and results of trying new political experiments, especially those which have to do with tariffs. They do not wish to invite any repetition of that experience, and they voted that, what in their votes.

If we have had the returns right, we should say they indicate:

That T. Roosevelt's THIRD TERM AMBITIONS have been shattered and his capacity for POLITICAL AND COMMERCIAL DISTURBANCES materially curtailed;

That Political Unrest is about ready to take a rest;

That a Democratic House of Representives at Washington will serve to restore public confidence in the Republican management of national affairs in plenty of time for 1912;

That in the meantime, THE REPUBLICAN PARTY WILL HAVE TIME TO RESTORE THE NATION TO PROSPERITY BY A WISE AND CONSERVATIVE TREATMENT OF ITS INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS;

The medicine is a little bitter, but THE PATIENT NEEDED IT.

THE COMING CITY OF CONNELLSVILLE.

The vote on the city charter yesterday indicates that Connellsville is emphatically Progressive, though definitely opposed to New Nationalism. The opposition wasn't worth speaking about.

Our next attention will be devoted to the selection of men of ability and integrity for the management of the new city's affairs, and in this work the business interests of Connellsville should lend even greater assistance than they did to the city charter movement, not as an organized body, but as citizens and individuals performing a patriotic and imperative duty.

In discussing the advantages and disadvantages of city government, we made plain and repeated with emphasis the fact that THE SUCCESS OF ANY MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT DEPENDS PRIMARILY AND NECESSARILY UPON THE CHARACTER OF THE MEN CHOSEN TO ADMINISTER IT, and the choice of such men cannot come up too early for consideration.

Let it not be forgotten that many offices are chosen, NOT AT THE ELECTION, BUT AT THE CAUCUS AND THE PRIMARY. The cause of good government demands that it begin early and begin right.

MINE RESCUE CARS STATE AND FEDERAL.

The United States Bureau of Mines was created primarily for the humane purpose of assisting the various State departments in the development of safer mining methods and more efficient mine rescue work. Conservation is also one of its incidental powers. It will deal with economic operation, especially with that which promises the recovery with safety of the tallest measure of our valuable products.

As a branch of the Technological Division of the United States Geological Survey, it has already furnished valuable information concerning the gaseous elements encountered in mining and the relative values of different explosives. This work will be continued.

One of the latest and most practical developments of the bureau is the mine rescue car which was on exhibition in the Connellsville coke region the greater part of last week. It is proposed by the bureau to build six of these cars to be stationed at follows in the Pennsylvania anthracite region in West Virginia; in Alabama, probably at Birmingham; in Indiana; in Colorado; in Wyoming, in Montana.

We find it difficult to understand why one of these mine rescue cars was not assigned to the bituminous regions of Western Pennsylvania, comprising as they do the largest and most important mining district in the United States.

The matter seems which should be taken up by the Connellsville coal operators and urgent protest made against the act of the bureau in ignoring this section. One of the rescue cars should be assigned to stations at Pittsburgh.

In the meantime, the Pennsylvania State Department of Mines ought to prepare a recommendation to the Governor that he urge upon the Legislature the merits of making a sufficient appropriation for the purpose of building, furnishing and equipping two State mine rescue cars, to be located in the anthracite and bituminous regions, respectively, to cooperate with the cars of the federal bureau.

THE RAILROAD, RATE QUESTION.

These days are full of trouble for the railroads. They were compelled to advance wages some months ago under a policy hint that if they refused there might be an inquiry into the reasonable character of their rates. They acquiesced with the tact understanding that they might bring up the question of an advance in rates after the proper authorities had investigated their traffic. In the meantime, some of the western roads are threatened with a strike unless they advance the wages of locomotive engineers, and some shippers in the eastern territory betray evidences of a disposition to demand lower freight rates.

These different interests and their conflicting demands give the layman a new insight into the character of the vast and complicated problem of with which the Interstate Commerce Commission has to deal in order to establish equitable conditions as between railroads and their employees and their customers.

Among the interests which are particularly restless under existing conditions are the iron and steel manufacturers, and incidentally the Connellsville coke and Pittsburgh coal operators. The prices of their commodities are at a low ebb owing partly to the withholding of railroad orders for steel, and producers feel that it is time their freight rates were being revised with some equitable relation to other rates. The railroads on their part defend themselves by saying that they have been unable to purchase steel by reason of the paucity of their earnings under advanced and advancing costs of operation and stationary rates for service. The coal and coke and iron and steel industries of Western Pennsylvania have always been

William H. Berry Carried Scottsdale; Berkley Boyd Leads Assembly Ticket.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Nov. 9.—The town of Scottdale went for Berry almost through to one in yesterday's election, with Berkley H. Boyd, a local candidate for Assembly being the highest man on the ticket. The two other Assembly candidates that stood next to him here were L. L. Lowe and M. P. Shoopman. Boyd was on the Republican and Keystone tickets and the other two on the Democratic and Keystone ticket.

The White school district adjoining Lewis also went very strongly in the same way as Scottdale. The results in the four wards of Scottdale and the White district are tabulated thus:

Big Crowd Out.

A big audience attended the evangelistic meeting at the Tabernacle last evening. Evangelist Davis drilled the audience in the keynotes of the various chapters of the Bible. A large number of requests for prayers were made by the audience. This special numbers rendered by the large choir were fine; young and two little girls made a hit by singing the chorus of one of the hymns when called to the platform. Mr. Mills sang the solo, "Choose the Best," with fine effect.

the handle and hurt his hands as well. A lot of people are trying to do their work without Christ as the head of their life. They are having a hard, painful time and they are not cutting much wood either. If you want to do things that will count for time and eternity go; the axe head on and keep it on. The axe head is Christ."

A lively testimony meeting followed and the election reports were read from the platform as fast as they came in. Tonight there will be our platform. Mr. Mills sang the solo, "Choose the Best," with fine effect.

V.—Bathing For Health

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

ANY one who has watched a group of small boys diving from the docks of our seacoast cities does not need a scientist to tell him that they are thoroughly at home to the water, but the scientist may suggest that this "at homeness" is an instinct transmitted from remote ancestors in the stone age and in support of this view will point out that human beings in the early stages of their development exhibit certain fishlike characteristics, which warrant the belief that away back in dim antiquity our ancestors were quite as well adapted to water as we now are to land.

The practical application of the above reflections is that bathing has a wide range of usefulness aside from its cleansing effect. Every self respecting American citizen desires to be clean and, with bathe for that purpose more or less frequently; but the mistake should not be made of looking upon the bath simply as a cleansing process. Possibly for the reason suggested above the mere contact with water stimulates and invigorates the body entirely apart from the influence of temperature and the removal of dirt.

Warm water and puce soap are considered the essentials for a cleansing bath, but a cold bath, followed by vigorous rubbing, will accomplish all that is really necessary for cleanliness.

Dangers of Warm Bathing.

The vast amount of supposed dirt removed by the Turkish bath is mostly epithelial scales from the various layers of skin. To remove an excessive amount of this scurf skin may impair its protective qualities hence the advisability of not taking the Turkish or Persian bath oftener than once a week. However, the warm bath gives a greater feeling of confidence in one's cleanliness than the cold bath and is doubtless beneficial if not employed too often and to the exclusion of the more valuable and tonic cold bath.

It is a good plan to sponge or sponge the neck and chest with cold water after finishing the warm, cleansing bath. This precaution should always be taken by those who rely solely on the warm bath, especially if they bathe every day; otherwise undue susceptibility to colds may develop. As a rule, the warm bath should be taken in the evening.

Most people who have employed the cold shower or plunge will testify to its delightful and invigorating effects, but there is no reason why it should be forced upon delicate children or feeble adults.

Baths For Babies.

A daily bath for the young baby is of the utmost importance. At first the temperature of the water should be 95 degrees F., but by the end of the first month it may be reduced to 70 degrees F.

When the child reaches eighteen months cold sponge may be given as a finish to the warm bath.

Delicate children who have not been thus trained may be gradually inured to the cold bath and enjoy its benefits if caution is used. For such children the temperature of the water should be warm or tepid at first and daily reduced until it is obvious that a vigorous and healthy reaction will not follow a further reduction.

It is really dangerous, not to say cruel, for obstinate nurses or parents to force an aemic child with a poor circulation to take a cold bath from which it is physically incapable of reacting.

Very often the cold shower or sponge bath is well borne if one stands in a tub of warm water.

Value of the Cold Bath.

The cold bath is a most valuable nervous and circulatory stimulant. When well borne it improves the circulation, not only in the skin but in the remotest recesses of the vital organs.

The cold bath trains the nerve centers that control the production of body heat and those that control the blood vessels in such a way that the system is fortified against exposure and drafts. An earnest effort, therefore, should be made to accustom oneself to this valuable tonic and protective measure.

Bearing physical disability, no one can offer a valid excuse for neglecting the daily bath. A tub, a jug of water, a sponge and a coarse towel suffice for a bath quite as refreshing as could be had in the luxurious halls of Caracalla.

Dangers of the Cold Bath.

Personally I question the advisability of the ice cold plunge as a daily practice. The shock of this plunge is well reacted from by many, but there is danger in some cases of undue strain upon the arteries and internal organs.

The moderately cold plunge or shower fulfills all purposes of health, and it is the part of wisdom to be moderate in this as in all things.

The ice cold bath is to be avoided by those suffering from heart or kidney trouble or rheumatism, but such subjects may still enjoy a daily tepid bath—especially if it is followed by a vigorous rubbing of the skin with a coarse towel. Also these subjects may harden themselves against colds by lightly sponging the neck and chest with cool water.

The best time for the cold bath is before breakfast. Following the bath, vigorous rubbing with a coarse towel and a few exercises adapted to the strength and endurance of the individual are advisable.

A very valuable measure in cases of nervous exhaustion and occasionally in cases of insomnia is the drip sheet bath, employed as follows:

The patient, stripped, should stand in a tub of warm water. A sheet dipped in cool or tepid water, the temperature depending upon the ability of the subject, is then wrapped around him from head to foot. Brisk friction of body and limbs is applied by an attendant, and the patient himself, may rub the front of his body. Except on the advice of a physician such a bath should last but a few moments, and then the bather should be put to bed.

Bathing in Fever.

When typhoid fever, pneumonia or other serious illness exists the question of cold bathing must be left to the attending physician. In a mild feverish condition much comfort will be afforded the patient by cool sponging. Even sponging with tepid water will reduce the temperature and allay nervous excitement. The sponge should not be "soaked" wet, but only wet enough to leave a light film of water on the skin.

The mighty hot foot bath is a valuable restorative measure, especially in middle life and old age. It promotes healthful, restful sleep and relaxes and refreshes the congested and tired brain.

After taking a hot foot bath the bather should go to bed at once and compose himself to rest before the effects of the bath pass away. No attempt should be made to induce a perspiration when the bath is taken for its restive and restorative effects.

WHEN A MAN MARRIES

THE MAN IN LOWER TEN, ETC.

CHAPTER XX.

Breaking Out in a New Place.
Hunger roused everybody early the next morning. Friday. Bella Mercer had discovered a box of bonbons that she had forgotten, and we divided them around. Aunt Selina asked for the candied fruit and got it—quite a third of the box. We gathered in the lower hall and on the stairs and nibbled, noshing, sweets while Mr. Harbison examined the telephone.

He did not glance in my direction. Betty and Dal were helping him, and he seemed very cheerful. Max sat with me on the stairs. Mr. Harbison had just uncrossed the telephone box from the wall and was squatting into it, when Bella came downstairs. She was her first appearance, but as she was always late, nobody noticed. When she stopped just above us on the stairs, however, we looked up, and she was holding to the rail and trembling perceptibly.

"Mr. Harbison, will you—can you come upstairs?" she asked. Her voice was strained, almost ready, and her lips were white.

Mr. Harbison started up at her, with the telephone box in his hands.

"Why—certainly," he said, "but unless it's very important, I'd like to do this talking elsewhere. We want to make a food record."

"I'd like to break a food record," Max put in, but Bella created a diversion by sitting down suddenly on the stair just above us, and burying her face in her handkerchief.

"Jim is sick," she said, with a sob. "He—he doesn't want anything to eat, and his head aches. He—aid for me—to go away and let him die!"

Dal dropped the hammer immediately, and Bella Mercer sat, patting, with bonbon halfway to her mouth. For, of course, it was unexpected, finding sentiment of any kind in Bella, and none of them knew about the scene in the den in the small hours of the morning.

"Sick!" Aunt Selina said, from a hall chair. "Sick! Where?"

"All over," Bella quavered. "It's poor head is hot, and he's thirsty, but he doesn't want anything but water."

"Great Scott!" Dal said suddenly. "Suppose he should—she, are you telling us all his symptoms?"

Bella put down her handkerchief and sat up. From her position on the stairs she looked down at us with something of her old haughty manner.

"It he is ill, you may blame yourselves, all of you," she said cruelly. "You taunted him with being fat, and laughed at him until he stopped eating the things he should eat. And he has been evereating—on the roof, until he has worn himself out. And now—he is ill. He—he has a rash."

Everybody jumped at that, and we instinctively moved away from Bella. She was quite cold and scornful by that time.

"A rash!" Max exclaimed. "What sort of rash?"

"I did not see it," Bella said with dignity, and turning she went up the stairs.

There was a great deal of excitement, and nobody except Mr. Harbison was willing to go near Jim. He went up at once with Bella, while Max and Dal sat gravely downstairs and wondered if we would all take it, and Anne told about a man who knew who had it, and was deaf and dumb and blind when he recovered.

Mr. Harbison came down after a while, and said that the rash was there, right enough, and that Jim absolutely refused to be quarantined; that he insisted that he always got a rash from early strawberries and that it, he did have anything, since they were so touchy he hoped they would all get it. If they locked him in he would kick the door down.

We had a long conference in the hall, with Bella sitting red-faced and objecting to every suggestion we made. And finally we arranged to shut Jim up in one of the servants' bedrooms with a strict warning out of disinfectant hung over the door. Bella said she would sit outside in the hall and tend to him through the closed door, so finally we gave a grudging consent. But he was in an awful humor. Max and Dal put on rubber gloves and helped him over, and they said afterward that the way he talked was fearful. And there was a telephone in the maid's room, and he kept asking for things over and over again.

When the doctor came he said it was too early to tell positively, and he ordered him liquid diet and said he would be back that evening.

While—the diet—takes me back to the family. After they had moved Jim, Mr. Harbison went back to the telephone, and found everything it should be. So he followed the telephone wire, and the rest followed him. I did not; he had systematically ignored me all morning, after having dared to kiss me the night before. And any other man I knew, after looking at me the way he had looked a dozen times, would have been at least reasonably glad to find me free and unmarried. But it was clear that he was not. I wondered if he was the kind of man who always makes love to the other man's wife and runs his mind when she is left a widow, or gets a divorce.

And just when I had decided that I hated him, and that there was one man I knew who would never make love to a woman whom he thought married and then be very dignified and aloof when he found she wasn't, I heard what was wrong with the telephone wire.

It had been cut! Cut through with a pair of silver manicure scissors from the dressing table in Bella's room, where Aunt Selina slept! The wire had been clipped where it came into the house, just under a window, and the scissors still lay on the sill.

It was mysterious enough, but no one was interested in the mystery just then. We wanted food, and wanted it at once. Mr. Harbison fixed the wire, and the first thing we did, of course, was to order something to eat. Aunt Selina went to bed just after luncheon with indigestion, to the relief of every one in the house. She had been most unpleasant all morning.

When she found herself ill, however, she insisted on having Bella, and that made trouble at once. We found Bella with her cheek against the door into Jim's room, looking maddeningly at her from the other side. At first she refused to stir, but after Anne and Max had tried and failed, the rest of us went to her in a body and implored her. We said Aunt Selina was in awful shape—which she was, as to temper—and that she had thrown a mustard plaster at Anne, which was true.

So Bella went, grumbling, and Jim was a maniac. We had not thought it would be so bad for Bella, but Aunt Selina fell asleep soon after she took charge, holding Bella's hand, and slept for three hours and never let go!

About two that afternoon, the sun came out, and the rest of us went up to the roof. The sheet had melted and hot

"Do you mean—?"

the air was faintly warm. Two housemaids dusting rugs on the top of the next house came over and stared at us, and somebody in an automobile down on Riverside Drive stood up and waved at us. It was very cheerful and hopelessly lonely.

I stayed on the roof after the others had gone, and for some time I thought I was alone. After a while, I got a whiff of smoke, and then I saw Mr. Harbison far over in the corner, one foot on the parapet, moodily smoking a pipe. He was gazing out over the river, and paying no attention to me. This was natural, considering that I had hardly spoken to him all day.

I would not let him drive me away, so I sat still, and it grew darker and colder. He filled his pipe now and then, but he never looked in my direction. Finally, however, as it grew very dark, he knocked the ashes out and came toward me.

"I am going to make a request, Miss McNair," he said evenly. "Please keep off the roof after sunset. There are—reasons." I had risen and was preparing to go downstairs.

"Unless I know the reasons," I retorted. He bowed.

"Then the door will be kept locked," he rejoined, and opened it for me. He did not follow me, but stood watching until I was down, and I heard him close the roof door firmly behind me.

A Bar of Soap.
Late that evening Betty Mercer and Dallas were writing verses of condolence to be signed by all of us and put under the door into Jim's room when Bella came running down the stairs.

Dal was reading the first verse when she came. "Listen to this, Bella," he said triumphantly:

There was a fat artist named Jim.

Who cruelly called his friends Max.

When, altho' shut up tight,

He broke out over night.

With a rash that is maddening, he chas.

Then he caught sight of Bella's face as she stood in the doorway, and stopped.

"Jim is delirious!" she announced tragically. "You shut him in there all alone and now he's delirious. I'll never forgive any of you."

"Delirious!" everybody exclaimed.

"He was sane enough when I took him his chicken broth," Mr. Harbison said. "He was almost fluent."

"He is stark, staring crazy," Bella insisted hysterically. "I—locked the door carefully when I went down to my dinner, and when I came up it—it was unlocked, and Jim was babbling on the bed, with a sheet over his face. He—says the house is haunted and he wants all the men

New York City Faces Paralytic Strike Among Expressmen, Teamsters and Taxicab Drivers.

STRIKE SCENES IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The strike situation in this city is rapidly growing serious. When the express drivers first struck in Jersey City the authorities thought the matter would be settled in a few days. Now that the strike has reached New York and Mayor Gaynor failed in his first effort to settle the dispute, labor leaders are trying to involve every teamster and taxicab driver in the city. The police have had only a few cases of violence so far. Shipping interests are being badly crippled. Mayor Gaynor has ordered all policemen off the express wagons. The company and the men fail to agree on the right of the company to discharge union men.

to come up and sit in the room with him."

"Not on your life," Max said. "I am young, and my career has only begun. I don't intend to be cut off in the flower of my youth. But I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll take him a drink. I can't be a pole or something."

But Mr. Harbison did not smile. He was thoughtful for a minute. Then: "I don't believe he is delicious," he said quietly, "and I wouldn't be surprised if he has happened on something that will be of general interest. I think I will stay with him to-night."

After that, of course, none of the others would confess that he was afraid, so with the South Americans leading, they all went upstairs. The women of the party sat on the lower steps and listened, but everything was quiet. Now and then we could hear the sound of voices, and after a while there was a rapid stamping of doors and the sound of some one running down to the second floor. Then quiet again.

None of us felt talkative. Bella had followed the men up and had been put out, and sat musing by herself in the den. Aunt Selina was working over a jigsaw puzzle in the library, and declaring that some of it must be lost. Anne and Bella Mercer were embroiling, and Betty and I sat idle, our hands in our laps. The whole atmosphere of the house was mysterious. Anne told over again of the strange noises the night her necklace was stolen. Betty asked me about the time when the comfort slipped from under my fingers. And when, in the midst of the story, the telephone rang, we all jumped and shrieked.

The eccentric campaign of Jesse Hook Wise consumed lots of time but did not deliver the goods. Mr. Wise made a poor run in the borough and hundreds of Democrats took up his cause to cast their votes for Colonel Thomas S. Craig, who will occupy former Congressman Allen F. Cooper's seat in the House of Representatives at Washington. Mr. Craig led the ticket in Connellsville with a total vote of 1,162 and a plurality of 51 over Jesse Hook Wise. Mr. Craig developed the same strength in Connellsville that showed for him elsewhere, and while his election was never for an instant been in doubt his good run at the head of the ticket was an agreeable surprise for his friends.

Closely behind Craig came State Senator William E. Crow. That Senator Crow did not beat the ticket can be attributed to the fact that his opponent, T. R. Dearyman, was by far a more formidable opponent than the man who bucked Colonel Craig, and one who lives in this end of the county has a large following of personal friends. In spite of this, Mr. Crow's total vote was 1,156, only 12 behind Craig, and his plurality over Dearyman 62.

John S. Carroll again led the legislative ticket. There was some cutting of Mr. Carroll's vote on the part of those opposed to local option, but the election figures at the various wards tell that the workers who might be suspected of a tendency to cut Carroll's vote used every effort to secure the election of the entire Republican ticket. The First Ward won resoundingly by an overwhelming majority, as it always does, and Mr. Carroll's vote was only a few behind the other legislative candidates.

The Courier Told the News By Splendid U. P. Bulletin Service.

The Courier played its part in disseminating election returns without hunting to find or going into the moving picture business. By the aid of auxiliary telephones in the office it was possible to secure immediate connections and those who called for the latest returns were promptly accommodated.

The Courier secured the report of the Central Press over the land line wire by which it receives its exclusive telegraph service every day. The bulletins were not bad but unfortunately there was, but represented, in brief, resume of the situation up to the minute they were sent.

The service of the United Press can justly be said to have been the best election night service ever supplied by any paper in Fayette county by a press association, telegraph or telephone company.

The local returns were secured early. The counting of the straight votes foreclosed the overwhelming Republican vote and the success of the third class city proposition.

During the evening hundreds visited the Courier office to secure the latest news, while the telephone inquiries ran into the thousands. An additional Tri-State phone was installed to take care of the heavy load of calls directed to The Courier.

Excellent service was given by the Tri-State company, not only in prompt connections locally, but in adding The Courier to receive out of town returns. Practically 90 per cent of the districts reporting to The Courier last night sent their returns over the Tri-State.

Next Governor Is Wildly Cheered In Own Town

CHARLEROI, Pa., Nov. 9.—The wild enthusiasm was manifested in Charlboro when John K. Tener was proclaimed John K. Tener to be the successor to Edwin S. Stuart as chief executive of the Keystone State. Mr. Tener spent the evening at the local Republican headquarters where returns were received from all over the State.

Charlboro stood alone by the home candidate and with North Charlboro gave him approximately over 75% of the vote. Mr. Tener got 101 votes. He was 141 votes and his majority in this precinct was 140 votes. The total vote in Charlboro and North Charlboro was as follows: Tener, 88; Berry, 20; Grinn, 1. A few scattering returns were cast for the Socialist and Prohibition candidates.

Tener's popularity had been well established when he first returned to his home town after serving through three years in a term from three different. He gave Tener a few expressions which consisted only of such words as "good," "fine," etc. He appeared on the street and caused them to be repeated to a larger crowd his friends to shake him by the hand and extend their congratulations. A more popular man in his home town could not be found. He was elected to gubernatorial honors.

Early in the evening the election was on the corner of Fifth street and Fifth-Ridge Avenue, which since the opening of the Republican State convention in Charlboro, has been the home of the Republicans. Tener, in his speech, said: "I hope I can forthwith speak in the name of the people." For Governor John K. Tener, was allowed to speak in the name of the people. Tener had to speak in Charlboro during his recent campaign.

Last night Mr. Tener was a little late in arriving at the Republican headquarters and by then many due Penn Station Taken Into Camp Saturday at Mt. Pleasant.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Nov. 9.—The Penn Station Schoolmen were beaten here Saturday afternoon by the Mt. Pleasant Schoolmen by the score of 21 to 0. The game was interesting throughout the entire four periods.

Some spectacular runs were made by Long, Head and Smith, while the blocking of Steiner and the heady playing of Savitz must not be overlooked.

In the last quarter with 2½ minutes to play Long of Mt. Pleasant Schoolmen caught a punt on his own ten yard line and ran the length of the field for the fourth touchdown.

The first touchdown was made in the first period by Long and Smith bringing the ball from the center of the field to the ten yard line by two forward passes, then Steiner plunged through the line for a touchdown.

The second touchdown was also made in the first period by Head intercepting a forward pass and running 60 yards for a touchdown.

The third touchdown was made by Steiner, after Long had run 75 yards for a touchdown but was called back to the ten yard line because Penn claimed he ran out of bounds.

Long, Steiner and Head starred for Mt. Pleasant Schoolmen, although the whole team played a strong game against a heavier team.

Head, Captain, and H. Harrison played the strongest game for Penn.
